

Join Heartwood

Laurel Fork, George Washington National Forest, WV

When you join Heartwood, you join a community of people who are making a difference. Heartwood members gain access to a body of knowledge, experience, and energy to assist and sustain you, your work, and your community.

Heartwood members receive e-mail Action Alerts, the Heartbeat newsletter, and registration discounts at the annual Forest Council and Reunion, as well as the opportunity to apply for a mini-grant to help get your work off the ground.

Your membership contribution helps sustain the work of grassroots activists all across the Heartwood region who are working to protect the forests, mountains, and communities that they love. Thank you!

"Heartwood is defined not by what we oppose but by our shared vision of a just, cooperative, and enduring human society living in harmony with the natural world."

Grey's Arch, Red River Gorge, Daniel Boone National Forest, KY

Heartwood

People helping people protect the places they love

Visit our website
to learn more about our work,
our campaigns, and members.
info@heartwood.org
812-307-4326
heartwood.org

Heartwood is a cooperative network of grassroots groups, individuals, and activists dedicated to protecting the public forests of the central hardwood region of the North American continent.